CUT GLASS

It is a far cry from 1800 B. C. Egypt, to A. D. 1905 Victoria, B. C.; yet the unknown Egyptian who discovered the Art of Glass Making on the sands of Alexandria was giving birth to a reality which finds its Western Culminating point in the Superb collection of Cut Glass now on view in our show rooms.

Just as the individual differs from the crowd in those niceties and points of costume which stamp them as correctly dressed; so the table or room decorations are judged by the owner's correct taste in glassware.

We shall be delighted to show you the latest creations in Cut Glass, such as Fruit and Salad Dishes, Flower Vases, Decanters, Bon Bon Dishes, Cream and Sugar Sets, and Cut Glass for the toilet table.

Bridge Evenings, Dinners and Dances will soon claim your attention; nothing gives such a finish to the table as really good Cut Glass.

When Rioters Ruled Tokio

Mounted Gendarmes Galloped Into Mob Cutting and Slashing With Swords.

Firebrands Climbed Over Walls to Fire Residence of Home Minister.

Dramatic Defence of Kokumlin Shimbun by Literary Samurai With Sword.

STEAMER Iyo Maru, which arrived yesterday, brought further details of the sanguinary rioting in Tokio, following the dispersal by police of mass meetings called to protest against the peace terms. Fifty were killed, but the rioting was not confined to the streets. A vast amount of damage was caused by fires started by five organized parties of incendiaries, which went from Hibaya park in different directions. It was the police action which caused bloodshed. A mass meeting was arranged to take place at Hibaya park. The police notified the leaders under pain of arrest not to hold the meeting and caused them to be shadowed all day by detectives. In the afternoon, a mob of about 1000 men, many of them armed with swords, rushed from the park toward the entrance of the home minister's residence. There a double cordon of mounted gendarmes met them and turned back the crowd without violence. There were then cries of "Attack the gendarmes." Further throngs surged from the park, packing the wide street in front of the home minister's residence. Dust scooped into paper bags was thrown at the crowd, and stones were hurled over the tiled walls into the compound of the minister. At this time reinforcements of gendarmes arrived and charged up the street from the direction of the palace with drawn sabres. The crowd parted, allowing the horses to pass through, then closed behind, and showers of stones and cudgels were thrown at the gendarmes. Several were badly injured by the missiles, and they turned and dashed down the street at the gallop.

Swords to Kill
The wicked "Peace conference resulted in shameful disgrace to the empire." "Death alone can atone for the sin committed." A resolution was passed with loud acclamation that the treaty of peace be not ratified and Marshal Oyama ordered to continue fighting.

Suddenly some one shouted that the chief of police of Tokio was hiding in the residence of the home minister, which is situated across the road from the park. Many of the rioters once rushed from the park toward the entrance of the home minister's residence. There a double cordon of mounted gendarmes met them and turned back the crowd without violence. There were then cries of "Attack the gendarmes." Further throngs surged from the park, packing the wide street in front of the home minister's residence. Dust scooped into paper bags was thrown at the crowd, and stones were hurled over the tiled walls into the compound of the minister. At this time reinforcements of gendarmes arrived and charged up the street from the direction of the palace with drawn sabres. The crowd parted, allowing the horses to pass through, then closed behind, and showers of stones and cudgels were thrown at the gendarmes. Several were badly injured by the missiles, and they turned and dashed down the street at the gallop.

Cutting and Slashing
at all who were in the way. Many fell at this charge, and several gendarmes were dragged from their mounts and manhandled.

While this took place five desperate men had clambered over the wall into the compound of the home minister's residence and charged into the residence, breaking open the door. In the hall they met a major of infantry. He stood at the foot of the stairway with drawn sword and the five rioters, each armed with a sword, attacked him. He cut down one, killing him with a sweep of the sword, and disarmed the other four, arresting them. Outside in the street the gendarmes charged up and down, the mob resisting them. Several men brought the bars from the park entrance and used them as battering rams to beat down the door of the home minister's residence. At dusk the lodge was fired, and as the flames shot up a platoon of police was in hiding in a small temple facing the Imperial hotel on a street at right angles to that from the park. They rushed to the flank of the rioters, using swords without mercy. R. Kiyahara, editor of the Yozonzi, one of the newspapers suspended, who arrived by the Iyo Maru, said he saw several men fall with heads and arms.

Cloven by Sabre Cuts
The charge of the mounted gendarmes and foot police along the broad road that skirts Hibaya park marked the apogee of the black rebellion. When the first seven of the horsemen had passed up the road and back again it was like an engine moving windows in a wheat field. The crowd, which had been packed close from curb to curb across the width of the street, could not escape the hoofs of the horses and the steel of their riders. Shock of force meeting force left sprawling figures of the dead and wounded in its wake. The wounded rose and staggered away. The few who did not rise were carried limp as sacks of straw to the shaded areas of the park. Then in the gathering darkness the flames of the gate lodge fronting the residence of the minister of the interior flared up. It marked the masses of the rioters, returned to defy the police, and the last sharp and deadly thrust of the armed forces of the law was delivered from the little temple on the flank of the throng.

This Savage Onslaught of the police was particularly vindictive. Rushing from the temple on a hot run, fifty or more of them swept the road in front of the Imperial hotel, turned the tide of rioters back against the iron pickets of the fence about the electric

Change in Rates to the Orient Proposed by the Great Northern.

Collector Stratton of San Francisco Has Narrow Escape From Death.

C. P. R. Will Be Running Into Spokane About End of the Year.

SEATTLE, Sept. 22.—(Special)—The Great Northern Steamship Company officials today announced that the company will quote the same rate to Manila as is quoted for Shanghai and Hongkong, whether the trip is made via Nagasaki or Hongkong. Heretofore the Great Northern and Pacific Mail have added the local rate of $25 to the charge for passage to Manila, but the Canadian Pacific has absorbed the arbitrary rate of the local lines between Hongkong and Manila. The Great Northern, Manila, Shanghai and Hongkong rates, that go into effect immediately, are, for one-way passages: First cabin, $225; second, $168.75; third, $125; Asiatic steership, $51.

Three New Lines To the Coast
Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Line Prepare for an Extension.

Within Two Years Transcontinental Roads Will Be Doubled in Number.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Special)—It has been definitely decided that the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway is to be extended to the Pacific Coast. Chairman Roswell P. Miller has gone West to announce to the stockholders at their annual meeting on Saturday that definite plans have been arranged for an extension to the Coast.

This plan was considered about a year ago, but was abandoned as the result of a trade arrangement with the Union Pacific, under the terms of which the St. Paul was to receive an equitable share of through freight business. The Grand Trunk and Western Pacific have determined, however, to push their systems to the Pacific Coast. It is said, therefore, that $25,000,000 of the stock authorized in 1902 will now be issued.

Canada Will No Longer Submit to Yankee Poaching.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Raymond Prefontaine, Canadian minister of marine, with a party of Canadians was a visitor to the yards of the American Shipbuilding Company here today. In an interview relative to the recent firing upon the American fish tugs by the Canadian cruiser, Minister Prefontaine said that he was necessary to protect their fishing rights in the Great Lakes, Canada would build another cruiser and put it in patrol service. He said that Canada was determined to break up the practice of American fishmen poaching in Canadian waters. "The fact that it has seemed to have a preference for Canadian waters is our good fortune," said the minister.

THE HUNGARIAN CABINET.

Expected That Coalition Government Will Be Formed Today.

Buda Pest, Hungary, Sept. 22.—Audiences which coalition leaders will have of the King-Emperor tomorrow is regarded most hopefully and there is widespread expectation that compromise proposals which will be submitted by Count Andrássy, Frances Kossuth, Baron Banffy and Count Seelye will lead to a settlement enabling formation of the ministry and the restoration of administration. Coalitionists appear prepared to demonstrate to King-Emperor their strong desire to meet views of crown on army questions by confirming their demand to a general proposition for development of Hungarian army in accordance with national spirit, without insisting on use of Hungarian as the language of command.

Local Liberals Are Disturbed

Political Situation Complicated by News of Mr. Riley's Elevation.

At this morning's session of the Dominion Trades and Labor congress a scene occurred when a delegate, Mr. Anderson, of Montreal, proposed a resolution strongly condemning the military expenditures of the Dominion government and demanding that volunteers pay their own expenses. He said the expenditure would add to the parasites to be maintained by the industrial masses. The motion was lost. About fifty other resolutions are being rushed through congress. Considerable time was taken up discussing the appointment of organizers, the opinion being expressed that lack of them in Quebec and other provinces was the cause of the unionism. The matter was left to the executive. Receipts of the year were $4,700.29 and expenditures $4,001.36.

TROUBLE IN CUBA.

Congressman and Several Others Are Killed by Cienfuegos Police.

Havana, Sept. 22.—Official despatches received today from Cienfuegos announce the killing of Congressman Enrique Villalobos, leader of the Liberal party and the most notable orator in the lower house, and the chief of police of Cienfuegos during a conflict between the two political parties, the Liberals and the Conservatives. The government advises that the police had information that a quantity of arms had been deposited and they went to investigate. As the police ascended the stairs they were met by a party of Liberals, who fired on them, killing Chief of Police Villalobos. The police returned the fire, killing Villalobos and wounding several others. A detachment of the associated forces from Cienfuegos says that six persons were killed and twenty-five injured. Government despatches say that besides Congressman Villalobos and Chief of Police Villalobos.

Two Police Were Killed

and several policemen and civilians wounded. Guards surrounded the entire block in which the hotel is situated. A search of the hotel revealed several dynamite bombs in the rooms occupied by Villalobos. The police in searching the hotel were carrying out the orders of a judge, who was informed the explosives were hidden there. The government has received this telegram from Senator Frías: "While in Cienfuegos at present the forces are keeping order, every precaution is needed, as there is danger of assault. I recommend that the authorities prevent the entrance into Cienfuegos of probable trouble-makers who are."

Liability to Invade the City

There are fears of dynamite-bomb throwing. Acting on the advice of Senator Frías, the government tonight sent a train with five carloads of rural guards, most of whom are destined for Cienfuegos, while others will be distributed in Matanzas and Santa Clara, where advances received by the government indicate serious trouble may occur at any time. The troops are supplied with 14,000 rounds of ammunition. The feeling in Havana tonight is most intense. The Liberals are bitterly denouncing the government, saying they have received no advice from Cienfuegos because the government will not permit the use of either the government telegraph lines or of the cable lines.

Sir Thomas Shaugnessy and Party Start East Over the Crow's Nest Line.

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—The Britannia copper syndicate gives notice in the Canada Gazette of a request for the approval of plans for a wharf in Westminster district. The report that Mr. Courtney, deputy minister of finance, has resigned is not correct. The other bonds in 1906, when Mr. Courtney announced in his annual report that the time had arrived when the department ought to be looking for a younger man. He is well versed in modern finance. In the absence of Hon. W. S. Fielding Mr. Courtney would be the last man to desert the ship.

It is more than likely that at the next meeting of the cabinet formal application will be made to the imperial authorities to the government of Japan to allow Canada the advantages of the Japanese minimum tariff. It is understood that all that is necessary is for Canada to make application and it will be granted. The matter came up at the last meeting of the cabinet, but was left over till the next meeting.

Two Were Drowned

Toronto, Sept. 22.—Eight boys attending the picnic of the Victoria Industrial school on the lake shore today went out for a sail. The boat was overturned by a wave. Six of the boys clung to the upturned boat, but two, Henry Cogishall, aged 17, of Toronto, and Harry Leach, aged 16, of Ridgeway, essayed to swim ashore and were drowned.

LOGGER SUSTAINS SERIOUS INJURIES

Jaw Broken and Chin Torn by Deep Wound—Recovery Is Doubtful.

L. Croft, a logger, employed at the Monarch Lumber Company's camp at Port Renfrew, was struck by the cable used for hauling logs, on Thursday, and it is feared he will not recover. The unfortunate logger was hit under the chin by the cable and a gash four inches long was caused, the jaw being smashed by the blow.

A telegram was sent to Mr. J. H. Greer of this city to send medical assistance. Mr. Greer is absent from the city. Mr. L. Croft, of his office notified Dr. Hart, who responded quickly and was enabled to board the steamer Queen City shortly before she sailed.

The tug Tye was to be sent to bring back the doctor and the wounded man, but unfortunately the tug is ashore in the harbor, having stranded as a result of making too wide a turn when passing through the swing bridge. Mr. Croft was making every effort to secure another vessel last night to be despatched.

Dr. Hart on arrival by the Queen City yesterday morning found the unfortunate logger unconscious. His recovery is doubtful. The doctor telegraphed for a tug to be sent to take the victim of the accident to the city to be treated by Dr. Hart.

CANNERS MAKE A DISCOVERY

An Unusual Run of Salmon Now Alleged by Savants to Be Sockeyes.

Cannermen of the Fraser river and Puget Sound have discovered that the late run of salmon on the Fraser, which is regarded as the most unusual occurrence in the history of the fishing industry on the Sound, was really a sockeye, although of a very inferior grade to the first run, and very prominent with the infirmities of the late run, and as there has been no apparent abatement during the last few days, it is feared that a sufficient number of the inferior sockeye salmon will be offered for sale to injure all of the season's pack.

T. J. Gorman, one of the best known men engaged in the fishing industry on the Sound, has received a number of runs of the late pack from different canneries on the Sound and Fraser river, and has made comparisons with the first pack and other grades of fish taken in the waters of the Sound, at his office in this city. From his investigations, Mr. Gorman states that the fish are unquestionably a sockeye, and the Alaska reds. To a reporter of the Post-Intelligencer, yesterday, Mr. Gorman made the following statement:

"The late run of sockeye salmon, which has been the cause of so much comment in the fishing industry, fully thirty days late, is equal to the run that was expected in August but failed to materialize. The fish are very inferior and this is probably due to the fact that they have been in the water for a long time, and they are very old and have been spawning grounds and have been wandering about the beaches and in and out of fresh water streams for the past twenty or thirty days without food."

"It is a well known fact that the fish do not feed after starting on the run from the ocean to spawn. The sockeye salmon as a rule are a very old fish, and when they are canned furnish a nice oil which adds to the value. By comparing the late run with the first pack, it is noticed that instead of the oil that appears in the first pack, the late fish furnishes only a watery substance."

"Unless there is a disposition made by the packers in placing the fish on the market the sockeye salmon may be injured for future years."

Buy From Fraser River
While the Fraser river pack will not affect the Sound canneries at least seven of the packers have been buying fish from the Fraser river and are packing the inferior grade. The Pacific American Fisheries at Bellinham canned 10,000 cases of the late run before it was discovered that the inferior fish were and operations were suspended. Five other American canneries are still buying from the Fraser river and packing. All of the canneries that have been packing the late run were concerned that fell short of the Chinese labor contracts made at the opening of the season and are trying to make good the shortage for which they would be required to pay 50 cents a case to the contractor.

"The Sound canneries that have been packing the run have been paying 12 cents for the fish on the river and 14 cents a pound dry. When the cost of towing the fish in the river to the canneries on this side of the line is added it is estimated that the salmon cost the packing company close to 20 cents per fish."

The question of distributing the two different grades of sockeye when the season's pack is placed on the market may be taken up at the meeting of the Puget Sound Salmon Association, which will be held the early part of next month.

The line is to be known as the Deshler Line and is to consist of two boats, named Ohio No. 1, 1,019 tons; Ohio No. 2, 1,390 tons, and Ohio No. 3, 982 tons. These are foreign built steamers to sail under the American flag. Kobe is to be the home port, and steamers will sail every eight or nine days on the following route: Osaka, Kobe, Moji, Japan; then to Fusan, Chemulpo and Chinnampo on the coast of Korea; from there to Chefoo and Changhai, China; from Shanghai they return by the same route, viz., Chefoo, Canningmo, Chemulpo, Fusan, Moji, Kobe.

This line is to be especially fitted for passenger service, and it is expected that it will secure a large tourist trade. Heretofore there has been much difficulty in reaching Korea both from China and Japan, and it is believed that this line of steamers shall provide a much needed transportation service.

OCEANO ASHORE.

British Steamer Grounded Thursday in Columbia—Was Soon Floated.

The British steamer Oceano, from Kishinoue, Japan, grounded in the Columbia river Thursday night when en route from Astoria to Portland. The Oceano, before touching the Japanese port, came from Changhai, and is reported to have been infected with cholera. She has been ordered to quarantine station to be fumigated. It was necessary to discharge four hundred tons of coal before the steamer could be floated.

FLEET REACHES PORT.

Glenalvon, Lord Templeton and Nil Desperandum Arrive.

Three sailing vessels reached port yesterday, the British ship Glenalvon, Captain Andrews, from Yokohama; the British ship Lord Templeton, of Victoria, B. C., from Honolulu; and the German bark Nil Desperandum, Captain Eben, from Sourabaya. The Glenalvon and Lord Templeton were in ballast; the Nil Desperandum brought a full cargo of sugar from the Java port for the B. C. Sugar Refinery at Vancouver.

The Glenalvon was reported to have gone ashore at Saratoga Spit, on August 2, but Captain Andrews on arrival denied that his vessel had been ashore. She made a slow passage, having sailed eleven days before the Dechemto, which is now at Chemulpo. Captain Andrews, who is accompanied by his wife, will leave for Glenalvon here, and a new master will be sent to take charge of her. He is to join the Washington Stevedoring Company, which has been loading the steamer at the Lord Templeton, Captain Slade, left Honolulu on August 31, under charter to load ballast at Hastings for Sydney, Australia. The Nil Desperandum will load for Hamburg on Puget Sound, after discharging her sugar cargo at Vancouver.

NO SEIZURES.

Shearwater Reports Victoria Sealers Making Good Catches.

H. M. S. Shearwater, from Behring sea, after completing her patrol of the sealing grounds, reports that no seizures were made this season. A number of sealers were spoken to and all seemed to be doing well. The weather has been fine this season according to the officers of the Shearwater, and it is expected that the average catch of the fleet of sealers from Behring sea will be larger. There are eighteen Victoria sealers hunting in Behring this season. Several Canadian sealers also entered the sea. The M. S. Manning has also returned from Behring sea.

BROKE HER SHAFT.

Cottage City Towed to Nanaimo in Distress—Being Taken to Seattle.

The tug Lorne left port yesterday after having towed the steamer Cottage City of the P. C. S. S. Co. to Seattle for repairs, she having been towed to Nanaimo yesterday morning by the steamer Lorne. The tug Lorne, which is a British Columbia tug, was towing the Cottage City when she broke her shaft. The tug Lorne is now towing the Cottage City to Seattle.

The Cottage City was bound south when she lost her shaft, bound to Seattle via Victoria, from Skagway, with 40 passengers, a cargo of salmon and $10,000 in gold dust. The steamer was in distress when she was sighted by the tug Lorne. The tug Lorne, which is a British Columbia tug, was towing the Cottage City when she broke her shaft. The tug Lorne is now towing the Cottage City to Seattle.

McLEAN NOT ARRESTED.
No Action Taken in Connection With United States Demands.

It is improbable that Captain Alex McLean, sometime called "Sea Wolf" because a San Francisco author was an inveterate seer, could be arrested, at present. When Premier McBride notified the United States consul of the "Carmen" case, as she had been known since she registered at Victoria, for a sealing expedition, with her to stand trial, Judge De Haven overruled the demand which was filed in the case, and R. J. Tyson, W. J. Woodside, W. J. Wood and S. E. R. de Smidt are charged with being parties to the fitting out of the Carmen for a sealing voyage to Behring sea, in which seals were unlawfully taken by Captain Alexander McLean. Captain McLean registered his vessel, The Hochi of Tokyo published a picture of men and women with manager, closed lists shaking them at the Baron, who was seated in a train returning to Tokyo. The newspaper said everyone should turn his back upon Baron Komura when he comes home.

Passengers Tell of Outcry in Japan Against the Peace Plenipotentiary

Three Sailing Ships Arrive—Cottage City's Misfortune—Sealers Doing Well.

Steamer Iyo Maru, Captain Thompson, of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha line, reached port yesterday from Yokohama after an uneventful passage. The steamer brought 17 saloon, 10 intermediate, and 120 steerage passengers, including the crew of the Norwegian steamer Rodal, which was sold to the Japanese at Kobe. The cargo consisted of 3,364 tons of general merchandise, of which 77 tons was landed here. Among the passengers of the steamer were a party of Japanese, including I. Inouye, younger son of Viscount Inouye, the prominent Japanese statesman, R. Kayahara, editor of the Yorduzu Chuwa of Tokyo, one of the newspapers suspended by the Japanese government. Other passengers were Mr. Hunt, an American who has spent the last few months in Huma, in interior China, and who reports that the Chinese boycott is extensively carried out against American goods even to the remote villages of the interior. Chinese officials at the coast ports put a stamp on all goods to mark them, and American goods other than those arriving before the boycott was declared are refused the stamp. Mr. H. Krenner, an American, returned from Japan en route to New York. He was engaged as a clerk by the Standard Oil Company at Hakodate.

Mr. R. Kayahara of the Yorduzu Chuwa, in an interview, stated that there was considerable outcry against Baron Komura in Japan. He thought Baron Komura was very lucky in being ill. In returning to Japan he would go into danger, probably he would be assassinated. The newspapers published cartoons which were significant. Some pictured him with a rope about his neck; others with Samurai handling him a dagger. The Osaka Asahi published a picture of Admiral Togo being borne in a portable shrine in triumph by coolies, with a companion picture of Baron Komura being carried to burial in a funeral procession. The Baron was seated as dead in the coffin box and the bearers wore tall silk hats and had long and cadaverous faces.

The Hochi of Tokyo published a picture of men and women with manager, closed lists shaking them at the Baron, who was seated in a train returning to Tokyo. The Yorduzu in an editorial shortly before the suspension made a severe personal attack on Baron Komura and advised the people to ostracize him on his return. The newspaper said everyone should turn his back upon Baron Komura when he comes home.

Further advices received yesterday from W. P. Davis, bookkeeper at Carmanah Point, regarding the raft which was found on the beach near the west coast light on the previous day, showed with seeming positiveness that the raft had been occupied. Among the wreckage found on the raft was a triangle with pieces of canvas tacked to it, which had the appearance of having been used as a sun anchor. As stated yesterday, there were an empty water barrel and some tin of salmon. Some of the tin was empty. On one of the empty tins is the name of T. Stewart. Several sauce bottles also were found on the raft. A quantity of boards and other lumber was also found yesterday by the lightkeeper on the island coast.

John Siddam, who sighted four men and a woman on a raft off Randon on the Oregon coast on Wednesday, found that signals to those on the raft were not noticed, and he started with all speed up the coast toward the Randon life-saving station. It took some time to make the trip, and it was fully 5 o'clock before the life-savers started on their own pull at sea in quest of the people in such great peril. The Portland Oregonian says: When questioned on the subject, Mr. Siddam was positive in his statement that the raft contained the woman, accompanied by four men.

"I could see them as plain as I can see you," he replied to his questioner, in a very brisk tone of voice.

"There were four men and a woman. All were standing up and looking in one direction toward shore. I watched them for two hours and tried in every way to attract their attention, but without success. The raft, or whatever it was that bore them up, did not seem to be provisioned in any way. I could not see a box or a keg or anything that looked as if it might have contained anything to eat or drink."

During the past day or two the weather has been very thick along the coast, following the gale of wind that veered so suddenly on the 10th. There have been no signs of wreckage coming ashore, and no indications on the beach that a wreck may have occurred off shore.

Some conjecture is made that one of the numerous lumber droghers that ply the coast may have come to grief, and that the crew has taken to the life raft with a chance of getting ashore, rather than succumb to death on a water logged sea sweep bulk.

A SIGNIFICANT MOVE.

The Montreal Gazette contains an article on the "irruption" of "Fighting Joe Martin" into Manitoba, which so exactly coincides with the views expressed in this paper a day or two ago that it is reproduced in full. "His election," it says, "to the House of Commons in 1893 as the Liberal member for Winnipeg was one of the first generally recognized signs that the Conservative government at Ottawa had lost its hold of the public confidence. Mr. Martin is not of the highest type of public man. He is not a philanthropist. He fights for his own hand. He has heretofore preferred to fight in or beside the Liberal party. He received a message of congratulation from Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his election for Winnipeg in 1893, and was the Liberal candidate for that city in 1896. He was the head of what was in effect a Liberal administration in British Columbia. Today he is heading what is apparently meant to be a revolt against what poses as a Liberal government at Ottawa. He judges the time to be ripe for making profit by attacking those with whom he used to work; and joins himself to others of like view. In itself all this might amount to little. It comes at a time, however, when circumstances give it significance. There are signs of revolt all round against the policy and actions of the Laurier government. Mr. Sifton, who, whatever else he was, was a strong man, went out as a protest against the separate school proposals of the autonomy bills. He represented so much the opinions of the other Liberal members from the West that the ministerial propositions had to be considerably modified before his supporters could be united on them. The result was not satisfactory to either party to the controversy. Mr. Bourassa, as a Catholic, condemned it in the House of Commons. Other Liberals condemned it as contrary to the theory of 'national' schools. Newspapers that had stood by the party through years and years of opposition spoke strongly in censure of a course which reversed the policy they had supported in the past. These same newspapers are raising their voices in warning against further concessions to the demands for tariff protection of home industries, which a ministerial commission has been appointed to consider, and which most people expect it will be moved by. The government has just received also in the resolutions of the nominating convention of its party in West Lambton a sharp reproof for the great increases in the national expenditure which it has made the 'growing time' responsible for. All these things point to dangers, not immediate perhaps, but threatening success in the by-elections, but cumulative in their nature and sure in the end to bring disaster. They are evidences that the government's strength is waning, and with a weak personnel the decline will be accelerated by time. Therefore it is that such incidents as Mr. Martin figures in may be significant."

Whenever the Liberal newspapers do not get a decision to suit them, they invariably abuse the judge.

If the information be correct that Mr. George Johnson, who has for many years been statistician for the Dominion, is about to retire, it is to be regretted that growing years render it desirable on his part. He has done a great work for Canada, and has ever been industrious and conscientious in every detail of it. When Dr. Johnson placed his official imprimatur upon a statement it might be accepted without hesitation, and herein lay the value of his services. No doubt, Dr. Johnson, like J. L. McDougall, has a good many years of useful work in him yet, but he is a literary man as well as a statistician, and he is anxious to devote some of his life to literary work exclusively.

J. J. Hill has passed his sixty-sixth birthday, and is still an active and aggressive man, whose energies and brain are among the biggest factors to be counted with in the railway world. They were among the earliest factors in the development of the West. Hill was born in Guelph in 1838 and is of Scotch-Irish parentage. He received his early education in a Canadian academy and did his first work on a Canadian farm. In 1870 he established the Red River Transportation Company and opened up trade between western American cities and the Canadian Northwest. A year later he formed a partnership with Sir Donald A. Smith in the steamboat business, and in 1878 he was associated with Lord Mount Stephen and Lord Strathcona in the St. Paul and Pacific Railway deal.

Two articles which appeared in yesterday's Colonist were especially worthy of note. In one, Dr. P. L. Herault, technical director of the French Electro-Metallurgical Society, an authority on the smelting of iron ores and the manufacture of steel by the electro process, says that pig iron can be manufactured at $11 a ton and steel at $4 by the special process plant at the "Soo," which, according to the statement made, means a saving to Canada of $60,000,000 which is now sent abroad for steel. There is a serious discrepancy as to the amount of saving to be effected, however, and we are afraid the reporter put words in the expert's mouth which he did not use, as the total imports of iron and steel amounted to only $41,000,000. The other was contained in the extremely optimistic interview in reference to the conditions of business in Canada, given by Mr. B. E. Walker, general manager of the Bank of Commerce. This will be the banner year of Canada, he says, which "will enable the country to put a substantial backing of natural wealth behind its tremendously increased capital account." Mr. Walker always took a hopeful view of the prospects in the Dominion, and his faith is being abundantly justified.

TRADE UNIONISM AND CO-OPERATION.

A correspondent signing himself "Union Co-operator" writes us an over long letter on the subject of co-operation as allied to trade-unionism. It is written from the standpoint of sympathy with unionism by a unionist, and consequently the writer sees co-operation from one side only, and although an ardent advocate, fears the labor unionists as a class would not favor it, lest their interests, as capitalists in a co-operative concern, should come into conflict with their principles as unionists. In other words, lest in the practical working out of the co-operation of labor and capital in a definite scheme they might be obliged at times to compromise in favor of the capital interests they have at stake. For instance, if some concern, in which they had invested their labor, should get into low water or be obliged to compete with some other concern in a way that would render it necessary that wages should be cut, or hours lengthened, the question arises as to the position in which the employees would be placed? Could they conscientiously and properly agree to do something in violation of the principles and rules of their labor organizations? We think this difficulty is the result of a misapprehension of the principles at the very base of the whole question. At the present time under the wage system labor and capital are in passive, if not active, antagonism. A labor union is a defensive organization, for the purpose of keeping up the price of labor and surrounding employment with certain safeguards. The capitalist, under the present system, seeks to get his labor as cheaply as possible. Hence their interests in that sense are opposed to each other. Under a system of co-operation, carried to its fullest and most logical conclusion, the price of labor is really not important. There would have to be a scale of wages, but it would be a relative one. That is to say, in a concern in which all the employees, from the manager down, pooled their labor, or invested a portion of it in shares, the value of the respective services would have to be determined proportionately; but the more that was taken from the business by any individual employee, as wages, the less would come to him as profits. If he got no money at all in wages, he would get it all in profits, the same as an owner of a private business. The underlying principle, it must not be forgotten, in the claims of labor is that the laborer is entitled to a fair share of the profits which he creates. That is only theoretically and practically possible under a system of co-operation. Wages and hours of labor, as fixed by an organization and agreed to by employers, after all, are arbitrary in their relation to the earning powers of an industry. They are not based logically upon the principles which labor unions profess. As soon as labor and capital became identified in a concern, on the profit-sharing or co-operative basis, all necessity for labor organizations would cease, inasmuch as the object for which they exist would have been accomplished. There are many ways in which co-operation can be worked out, and it would probably depend upon the nature of the business. In a very large concern like a railway, for instance, there are special difficulties towards the application of the principle at all. The same is true of banks, telegraph companies, steel works and very large mines in which the initial expense is very great as compared with the operating expenses. We believe it is practical in everything in some form; but the idea now is not to seek to go beyond those enterprises which lend themselves most favorably to the principle.

All reforms are matters of slow growth, and the progress of co-operation must rest on the sure foundation of success. One successful experiment will naturally lead to another, until both the employer and the employee generally will see it to his advantage to seek to extend it to the fullest degree possible. At present the classes representing both capital and labor are "shy" in respect to it, as something faddish, experimental and unsafe from a business point of view.

The social and intellectual practices of co-operation are subject to influences inside the movement, and can be rendered active or passive according to the will of the majority of the members. The social and intellectual practices of co-operation are subject to influences inside the movement, and can be rendered active or passive according to the will of the majority of the members. The social and intellectual practices of co-operation are subject to influences inside the movement, and can be rendered active or passive according to the will of the majority of the members.

The relations of capital to labor are as clear to one as to the other, both desiring the improvement of the condition of their class. There is one in co-operative distribution, for in numerous instances it has proved to be the sheet anchor of their safety; when there was no work, and no wages, there was the accumulated stock at the store, and drawing on that from the out-of-pocket benefit from the union, the workers were able to live. The co-operative stores over their promotion, early growth, and solid maturity to trade unionists, who, in keeping with their union principles, succeeded in further improving their condition by means of union; thereby showing their faith in the principles of co-operation. There is a feeling exists in the minds of many trade unionists that the introduction of co-operation in labor involves a change so great, and so uncertain of success, that it is better to look upon as speculative and hazardous.

For the continued advancement of co-operation, labor is a factor that cannot be set aside, but must remain the source of strength of its life; and when we consider the number of those employed at co-operative stores, in co-operative production, and by the co-operative industries, we find labor brought into close relationship with what it has helped to produce, and having associated employers of labor, occupy in a sense precisely the same position towards the workers as the ordinary employer did, paying such wages to his workmen as the union demanded they should receive, except in exceptional cases where the workman, by his skill and industry, obtained a higher rate than demanded.

Co-operation, it may be assumed, would not only pay union wages, but would give the worker a proportionate share in the profits which remained. This would be in complete harmony with trade union principles. But supposing these workmen, members of a union, became shareholders in the manufactory in which they were employed, and a loss is experienced in the undertaking, and it is determined to curtail the cost of production by reducing wages, such reductions not being general in the district, but due to some local cause, such as bad market, would the union allow its members to work below the ordinary pay? It might be that the members, satisfied, having a pecuniary interest as shareholders beyond their wages, would be willing to accept a reduction to tide over a temporary depression, but not only would this be a blow to the association in which they were partners, could a trade union suffer such action of the part of its members, or demand that such members should resign in order to retain their membership in the union? Again would a trade union look with favor on any of its members who were financially interested in a co-operative workshop, which paid such wages as would disqualify others from joining the union? I have never heard of an instance where co-operation has failed to pay union rates; but it is easy to conceive in the present relationship such an instance arising.

The prejudices you refer to in the concluding remarks of your editorial of Sunday, September 13, may be easily overcome by co-operation recognizing the principles of trade unions by paying union rates and adopting union hours. It may be that the laborer will not be content with the hours as altogether unnecessary in relation to the manner co-operation recognizes trade unions; however that may be, if they are to be drawn together no division of this sort should exist. It is very desirable to see co-operation commend itself not only to the wealth producer, but as an example to the world that honesty in trade pays. We have often been reminded that good material and good workmanship is the cheapest, and in order to get the latter good wages must be paid, and trade-unionists as they labor for co-operation can lighten the new burden of the world by this extended union. Trade-unionists by joining co-operative societies will become enlightened as to the principles of co-operation. Associated in their union for trade purposes, and acting together in concert, they have been able to acquire wages which never could have been reached by individual effort. Possessed of considerable funds to repel any attack that may be made the position they have won by so much effort, and so much cost, they ought to unhesitatingly declare for co-operation. Workmen who have studied the question well, and who have seen the results of co-operation, cannot be permanent, that the dissatisfaction that prevails in many branches of industry, is due to the inequality of the division of profits, and the condition under which labor is performed.

The colossal growth of the co-operative movement points to the probability that in the future labor will be the ruling power in the world. If such will be the result will trade unions be content to be mere defensive organizations, or will they become co-partners in an association where the chief desire was to improve the condition of all concerned? The co-operative enterprise, capital and and trade-unionism, conjointly possess these two great forces—capital and labor. They possess the elements and attributes of both, and therefore can be made to perform the work by united action. Abstractedly they do not. What is wanted is the skill, the industry, the energy, and the wealth, actual and latent, of co-operation and trade unions into one homogeneous whole, or at least to show by means such a result can be reached. The aim of co-operation in its ideal form embraces everything connected with our social life, with our wants, aims and aspirations of the whole human family. Controlled by a spirit of equity and justice, it subordinates itself for the good of the many. It is all patent as a means of improving the condition of the worker, for it relies only on itself to bridge the chasm which divides labor and capital, and so to determine the true relationship which should exist between man and man. But ideal co-operation is not enough. There are two things still to have an ideal status, hope, strengthened faith, and fortitude. The practice of co-operation is the production of wealth by associated means. The association thus become their own shopkeepers, capitalists, manufacturers, and employers of labor. The profits derived therefrom are equitably divided between capital and labor and trade, thereby reconciling the conflicting interests of labor and capital, and encouraging trade either in the person of the purchaser or consumer. In distributive co-operation, the profit which goes to the consumer or consumer can remain as share capital, for which interest is paid. It is a new capitalist class is created, which has the tendency of "leveling upwards" the inequality of wealth, and of extending the business of life to such an extent that the worker will be met by such united action and loyal support.

The social and intellectual practices of co-operation are subject to influences inside the movement, and can be rendered active or passive according to the will of the majority of the members. The social and intellectual practices of co-operation are subject to influences inside the movement, and can be rendered active or passive according to the will of the majority of the members.

The trades unionist knows the extent of the liabilities which entitles him to the union's protection and support, and every day experience teaches him that his union is indispensable to meet the ever-increasing demand; and in this frame of mind he surveys with comparative ease and comfort his life. It is this satisfaction, this supreme contentedness, which has checked any impulses to go beyond the existing stage on to the co-operative ideal, which might, and possibly would, involve more responsibility and risk, but would certainly lead by co-partnership in labor to a radical change in the industrial life.

Co-operation and trade-unionism may be said to be mainly composed of the working classes—men and women who have to work with their hands for their daily bread. There is a common brotherhood between them, and they share the same joys and sorrows, and the same sympathies and help is most readily given amongst those whose surroundings are similar.

The acknowledgment of human duty and the experience of the strength of union are common to both, each furnishing in their history many striking examples. Organization and discipline are carried out by each with a rectitude and an obedience which would furnish an example to national governments.

The relations of capital to labor are as clear to one as to the other, both desiring the improvement of the condition of their class. There is one in co-operative distribution, for in numerous instances it has proved to be the sheet anchor of their safety; when there was no work, and no wages, there was the accumulated stock at the store, and drawing on that from the out-of-pocket benefit from the union, the workers were able to live. The co-operative stores over their promotion, early growth, and solid maturity to trade unionists, who, in keeping with their union principles, succeeded in further improving their condition by means of union; thereby showing their faith in the principles of co-operation. There is a feeling exists in the minds of many trade unionists that the introduction of co-operation in labor involves a change so great, and so uncertain of success, that it is better to look upon as speculative and hazardous.

For the continued advancement of co-operation, labor is a factor that cannot be set aside, but must remain the source of strength of its life; and when we consider the number of those employed at co-operative stores, in co-operative production, and by the co-operative industries, we find labor brought into close relationship with what it has helped to produce, and having associated employers of labor, occupy in a sense precisely the same position towards the workers as the ordinary employer did, paying such wages to his workmen as the union demanded they should receive, except in exceptional cases where the workman, by his skill and industry, obtained a higher rate than demanded.

RELIGION IN BULKLEY VALLEY.

Sir—In a late number of your newpaper a Rev. W. F. Prescott represents his hostess, somewhere in the Bulkley valley, as passing the remark, "that the nation is the only one that has no religion in the valley." So much nonsense has already been written about the north of this province that it is probably not worth the while to even launch away the singular piece of news. Indeed I am loath to believe that any minister of the gospel would so lightly and so ignorantly ignore the true conditions of religion in the valley as to give utterance to such an incongruous idea. For over thirty-five years I have been a resident in the valley, and have been particularly over-joyed in that region by hundreds of Indians who, from time immemorial, have claimed it as their hereditary hunting grounds. I had Mr. Prescott would be a reporter of his conversation—but read the "History of the Northern Interior of British Columbia" which would have been a better source of information. I am, Sir, a member of the Protestant ministry, speaking of those persons of the soil: "It was gratifying to me that they had not every evening, one of their own number leading their service." This was written some years ago. I have myself visited that valley almost every year, and if people will remember my own avocation, they will perhaps absolve me from the charge of self-praise when I venture to say that, while there, I was not too remiss in fulfilling my duty as a minister, especially when I listened to add that in that respect, I was not any better than my native guides and companions through the unexplored reaches of the Bulkley valley.

And here I might be allowed to remark for the benefit of several inquirers that my map of the Bulkley valley, which I trust will be a back seat of the productions which mistake with a touch of magnanimity the Morley for the Bulkley, is not being printed and copyrighted in Ottawa, along with several other track surveys of mine which will enter into the compiling of a complete map of the northern interior of British Columbia. This last work (which is to be on a large scale) will be issued with an explanatory report in the course of the forthcoming winter, when it is expected that the present provincial government will adopt and publish the same for the sake of intending settlers and miners.

Allow the urine to stand in a glass vessel for twenty-four hours, and if at the end of that it is clouded or has left a sediment in the bottom of the vessel you may be sure that your kidneys are diseased. LOCAL NEWS.

Hotel Concert.—Tomorrow afternoon, in the Hotel St. Francis, what is termed a chamber concert will be given. A collection will be taken up, to be devoted to the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Address Wanted.—Salvation Army headquarters is seeking to ascertain the address of William Proudlock, aged 46 years, height 5 feet 11 inches; brown hair, blue eyes, missing front teeth; three years; last known address, Bonanza Creek, Klondike.

Nanaimo's Enterprise.—Victoria will find in Nanaimo a strong rival for honors at the Dominion Fair at New Westminster. A. C. Wilson, who will have charge of the Nanaimo district exhibit at the Westminster fair, is busily engaged these days in collecting together what is needed to be placed on exhibition during fair time. On Thursday Mr. Wilson received about a ton of exhibits, and he expects to have all in by Monday, when the complete outfit will be shipped by the steamer Dunsmuir to the Royal City.

Export of Ores.—According to the Vancouver Province, asked as to the export of logs, Hon. C. P. Tatlow said that it was as it had always been; that is, to require that logs cut in the province be manufactured in the province.

The Pheasant Season.—The principal topic of conversation among sportsmen at the present time is the prospect of pheasants and quails being sufficiently numerous to make up for the comparative scarcity of grouse. It is generally believed that such will prove the case.

If it is true that "money makes the man complete," and that, being incomplete, you wish to borrow enough money to "complete" you, want advertising will help you to do even that.

The Pheasant Season.—The principal topic of conversation among sportsmen at the present time is the prospect of pheasants and quails being sufficiently numerous to make up for the comparative scarcity of grouse. It is generally believed that such will prove the case.

Lecture on Dairying.—At Nanaimo on Thursday evening, W. A. Wilson, superintendent of dairying in the Northwest, delivered an interesting lecture. He believed it a mistake to raise beef cattle, as it had invariably been the rule that wherever farmers had ended up by turning to the dairy animal. Mr. Wilson also dwelt at great length on the subject of clean milk in connection with the dairy.

Valdez Island Mines.—On behalf of Tacoma capitalists, J. T. Jones, a mining engineer of Tacoma, has just completed an examination of the Gowanland Island mines on Valdez Island. These mineral properties are owned by A. F. Rolph and associates. A fair amount of development work has been done on the claims, and it has been demonstrated that they carry a very large body of comparatively low-grade copper. Tests made and samples taken by Mr. Jones showed that the ore runs on the average of 4 per cent. copper. With the price of copper at 15 cents, this property would prove a very large shipping tonnage is available. Mr. Rolph states that the working force at the claims is to be increased immediately, and development already under way will be rapidly expanded. Additional houses are now being built to accommodate the proposed increase to the working force.

Dominion Fair.—Now that the Dominion Exposition is so near at hand, Victorians are beginning to show more interest in it than they have shown since the announcement by the Dominion government that the Royal City Agricultural association had been awarded the grant for the national fair. Many citizens and other directors of the association have worked hard and soon have the pleasure of witnessing the results from their months of labor. Judging from reports received from those having visited Westminster, not only are the buildings complete, but many of the interior exhibits are in place. There is every indication, in fact, that when the opening day of the show arrives everything will be ready for the reception of the thousands of visitors expected. In fact, a few days ago, the absolute free gift of a high-class sewing machine to one of the holders. This month's coupon was obtained at L. Dickinson's, where the sewing machine will be on exhibition in the show with a few days to come. The name of the lucky winner will be announced as soon as ascertained.

These Are the Days.—These are the days one needs a shoe brush. We are offering some very good shoe brushes, the kind that won't clog up but will wear even, for 75c; others at 50c, 40c, 25c and 15c. R. A. Brown & Co., 80 Douglas Street. Buy Brown's Brush Bargains.

May Deliver Address.—An effort is being made, during the visit of Professor Prince to this city, to have him give an address before the Natural History society. It is possible that he will arrange to deliver a paper on the subject of "The Deer and the Grouse" with colored lantern slides. He has several of his subjects so illustrated. At the last meeting of the society it was decided to allow of ladies becoming members.

A Hunting Trip.—J. H. Mason and A. G. Angus, of Tacoma, have left on a hunting tour of the west coast and expect to be absent for about a fortnight. The sport afforded by the abundance of deer, grouse and other game in the less frequented resorts of the island has previously been experienced by Messrs. Mason and Angus, and they decided to make one more holiday trip before the commencement of the wet weather.

Excursion Rates.—For the convenience of the large number of Victorians wishing to visit the Dominion Fair, the C. P. R. intend arranging excursion rates. The fact that the Fifth regiment will take an active part in the military manoeuvres announced for the first days of the show is likely to attract many local civilians. During their stay at the Royal City the local volunteers will camp at some suitable spot near the exhibition buildings, and officers announce that during their sojourn there they will be pleased to receive civilian friends from Victoria.

Cement in Demand.—A shortage of cement is reported in the cities of the Pacific coast for the month of September. Public works have been suspended, to the great derangement of extensive schemes of improvement. The local market has not been affected, except that the price has been steadily mounting, no doubt in keeping with the increasing scarcity of cement along the coast. Any cement that has been exported from Victoria to the States has been the imported article, either English or Japanese. The quantity of which has been landed here from time to time within the past two years, for use on the various government works and for private order. It is understood that the local market is now depleted of all surplus, and that no further orders can be filled for the United States.

If it is true that "money makes the man complete," and that, being incomplete, you wish to borrow enough money to "complete" you, want advertising will help you to do even that.

The Pheasant Season.—The principal topic of conversation among sportsmen at the present time is the prospect of pheasants and quails being sufficiently numerous to make up for the comparative scarcity of grouse. It is generally believed that such will prove the case. Cock pheasants are reported in large numbers throughout Saanich, and, in fact, all the neighboring farming districts. One drayback to the sport from the standpoint of the city hunter, at least is the increasing strictness of the law against trespassing. It is understood that the settlers of Saanich and Cowichan have expressed themselves in strong terms in reference to this matter, and will present all trespassers found on private property during the shooting season.

Lecture on Dairying.—At Nanaimo on Thursday evening, W. A. Wilson, superintendent of dairying in the Northwest, delivered an interesting lecture. He believed it a mistake to raise beef cattle, as it had invariably been the rule that wherever farmers had ended up by turning to the dairy animal. Mr. Wilson also dwelt at great length on the subject of clean milk in connection with the dairy, claiming that one of the most important items in this connection was cleanliness. In the case of a single farm multiplied itself into 71,000,000, it behooved every one to be very particular in this connection. Experts had declared that in Paris 58 per cent. of typhoid fever cases were caused by diseased milk.

Valdez Island Mines.—On behalf of Tacoma capitalists, J. T. Jones, a mining engineer of Tacoma, has just completed an examination of the Gowanland Island mines on Valdez Island. These mineral properties are owned by A. F. Rolph and associates. A fair amount of development work has been done on the claims, and it has been demonstrated that they carry a very large body of comparatively low-grade copper. Psychic Research.—The Psychic Research society, having secured the services of Madame Helen Stuart-Richings, B. D. A., for a few weeks to lecture along lines of new thought, would be pleased to see as many as are interested to hear this talented lady tomorrow evening at the K. of P. hall, Pandora and Douglas streets.

Preparing For Winter.—Advices from the north are to the effect that the Northwest mounted police are preparing for the opening of the winter posts on the overland Dawson-White Horse trail, about four weeks hence, when navigation of the river will have become very uncertain and dangerous. Supplies are being rushed to the various posts.

Advertising Victoria.—H. Cuthbert, secretary of the Victoria Tourist association, has received a letter from J. H. Turner, agent-general for British Columbia in London, Eng., stating that a number of views of Victoria resorts and farming districts on exhibition at his offices were greatly in demand. All the photographs available had been distributed in a very short time, and then, in order to supply the demand, photographs had been taken of the sights and new pictures printed. These Mr. Turner says, are being sent to all points throughout the old country.

A Fool Announced.—A despatch sent out from Port Townsend says: "Because officers in government fortresses in the vicinity of this place made a habit of directing powerful rays of searchlights on the Princess Victoria as that vessel passed on her way from and to Seattle, complaint has been made to the United States government by Canadian officials and orders have been received here prohibiting the indiscriminate use of these lights. The objections are thought to have been made on the ground that the lights dazzled the pilot and made it difficult for him to keep his course."

Manual Training.—H. Dummel, the superintendent of the manual training in the schools of British Columbia, is directing the exhibit at the Dominion Fair made by the department of education at Victoria. Mr. Dummel spent some time at the grounds, and the stand on which the exhibits of the schools throughout the province will be made are now nicely decorated with red bunting. The schools exhibit will be on a large scale. Samples of the work done in all the schools of the province will be submitted to the inspection of the visitors to the fair. Not only are the large centres such as Vancouver and Victoria sending exhibits, but every school down to the smallest district in the most remote part of the country will also be represented, and will have an equal chance for the fine prizes that have been offered by the management.

Unfortunate Youth.—Constable Neen left Nanaimo yesterday for New Westminster for the purpose of placing Arthur Thompson, a young man, 20 years of age, in the asylum at that city. Young Thompson, whose home is in Alberni, has been working for the last year in a Jervis Inlet logging camp, quitting that point several days ago and going to Vancouver. He arrived at Nanaimo on Wednesday and put up at the Nanaimo Hotel. Being informed that the youth was acting rather strangely, Chief Crossan went to the boy's room in the hotel, and after a sharp struggle took him in custody. Mr. Crossan at once telephoned to his parents in Alberni, who replied asking that he be sent home, to which the chief replied that he could not do so, as the boy was in such a condition as to warrant his removal to the asylum.

Exhibit is Shipped.—The material to be used in the district display of the Saanich Agricultural association at the Dominion Exposition, New Westminster, has been shipped to the mainland. It made up a curd and lot of the committee exercising the greatest care in packing so that the specimens of fruit, vegetables, grain, etc., might reach their destination without injury. All the farmers residing in Saanich are busy in discussing the display in course of preparation. They say it represents the best produce of the country and should make up the finest exhibit ever collected by the association. J. W. Martindale, Miss Martindale, Mrs. Furgoss and Richard John will supervise placing it in position. They will be assisted by members of the association at Saanich, who will look after forwarding any material that may be required to put the finishing touches to the display.

CAUSE OF FALLING HAIR

Dandruff, Which is a Germ Disease—Kill the Germ.

Falling hair is caused by dandruff, which is a germ disease. The germ in dandruff enters into the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, along with the cuticle in the scales, called dandruff or scurf. It stops the falling hair without curing the dandruff, and you can't cure dandruff without killing the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause and you cure the effect. Newbro's Heptilde is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. Heptilde is also a delightful hair dressing. Send for a few days to come. Send for stamps for sample to The Heptilde Co., Detroit, Mich. C. H. Brown & Co., 88 Government Street, Special Agents.

Free Sewing Machines.—The drawing for a Singer sewing machine, given away by the British Columbia Soap Works, W. J. Pender, proprietor, took place yesterday afternoon at Watson & Hall's store. No. 445 was the lucky winner. The further the drawing will make the public thoroughly understand the merits of White Swan Soap, there will be another sewing machine presented next month. With every purchase of 25c grocers will hand out a coupon which will enable the purchaser to choose in this White Swan Soap contest. Some grocers, in the rush of business, neglect from time to time to hand out coupons to their customers, who ought to insist on receiving these coupons, as they are valuable and will bring the absolute free gift of a high-class sewing machine to one of the holders. This month's coupon was obtained at L. Dickinson's, where the sewing machine will be on exhibition in the show with a few days to come. The name of the lucky winner will be announced as soon as ascertained.

These Are the Days.—These are the days one needs a shoe brush. We are offering some very good shoe brushes, the kind that won't clog up but will wear even, for 75c; others at 50c, 40c, 25c and 15c. R. A. Brown & Co., 80 Douglas Street. Buy Brown's Brush Bargains.

CUSTOMS OFFICER'S RECENT MISFORTUNE

George Maxwell Refused Landing at 'Frisco Is Coming to Victoria.

George Maxwell, a Canadian customs officer at Victoria, B. C., contracted the disease of trachoma while on a visit to Australia recently, says the San Francisco Examiner of Wednesday. On his arrival on the steamer Sierra from New Zealand he was denied a landing on the report of the United States medical examiner and ordered deported to Australia. He had a through ticket to Vancouver, but the Pacific Coast Steamship Company would not take him, fearing that he would be denied a landing at Victoria. Yesterday afternoon Dr. Cummings, quarantine officer, received a despatch from American Consul Dudley at Vancouver stating that he held an order allowing Maxwell to land at Victoria. The steamship company accepted Maxwell on the condition that should he be denied a landing at Victoria the Oceanic Steamship Company would take him back on board the Sierra.

WEDDINGS.

A celebrated beau of the mid-Victorian period was once asked why the top hat was the approved headgear for ceremonial and fashionable wear. After a moment's hesitation he removed his immaculate tie, placed it on the table and remarked: "The hat itself is one of the most absurd objects imaginable, but—placing it on his head—on a man's head it gives just that finishing touch which the keystone gives to the arch, the spire or tower to the church, or the roof to a house. Each of these objects is in itself of no meaning, but in the place for which they are designed they are absolutely indispensable." There are a number of weddings billed in Victoria. Gentlemen, see you wear the correct roof; don't inflict a frock coat, surmounted by a Derby, on the congregation. B. Williams & Company have specially imported several cases of Christy's and Townsend's top hats for these occasions. You can wear them out on Sundays.

A Quartz Exhibit.—C. C. Fisher, provincial government agent at New Westminster, is in receipt of a box containing a large number of specimens of gold-bearing quartz gathered from the mine at Barkerville. They will be placed on exhibition in the mineral hall during the Dominion Fair, where they will form part of the government's mining exhibit there. The specimens were collected by Gold Commissioner J. W. Bowron, at the request of the commissioner of mines.

Transcontinental Freight Rates

Subject Is Discussed at Length at a Meeting of Railway Commission.

Importance of Change in One Schedule Affecting Mixed Carload Shipments.

At the meeting of the railway commission in Vancouver on Thursday morning, H. T. Lockyer, chairman of the trade and commerce committee of the Vancouver board of trade, presented a resolution of that body opposing the application of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association for the restoration of the old rule No. 2 governing mixed carloads of freight, as in effect prior to the issue of Canadian freight classification No. 12, on shipments between points west of and including Port Arthur, and from points east of Port Arthur to points west thereof, and as now in effect between points east of Port Arthur.

W. H. Malkin, president of the board of trade, objected, because large stocks were held here by the local wholesalers. The change would enable manufacturers' agents to locate here for a few months without capital and secure orders for goods from retail merchants on account of being enabled as proposed to ship mixed carload lots. "It would disturb existing trade," he urged. "We want the present classification maintained, as it gives perfect satisfaction," added Mr. Malkin.

Oppose Mixed Carload Lots

C. A. Godson, of the Robertson-Godson Company, representing the metal, iron-pipe and hardware manufacturers, opposed the change. He said it would enable Eastern manufacturers to co-operate and make up carload shipments of various commodities in the East and compete at a decided advantage over the local wholesale merchants. It would also menace the city's trade with interior points.

B. W. Greer, C. P. R. general freight agent, explained that the privilege sought was intended to revise the old order permitting mixed shipments of groceries, hardware, etc.

John R. Marlow, manager of the transportation department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, argued in favour of the resolution, pointing out that it would tend to expand trade and enable Western consumers to secure goods at a lower figure. He said a misapprehension existed respecting the proposed change. It was not intended that half a dozen Eastern merchants should be permitted to join hands in hiring a car and shipping a mixed carload to Pacific Coast points. The privilege would only apply to the individual shipper, but would not permit co-operation in making shipments.

Replying to Mr. Marlow, Mr. Greer said he would not object to paying the straight carload lot on one commodity, hardware, for instance.

"Then you would be putting the small man out of business," commented Mr. Marlow.

Victoria and Nanaimo in Line

D. E. Spencer of Nanaimo, of the Drysdale-Stevenson Company of Vancouver, presented a resolution adopted by the drygoods merchants on the 14th instant, protesting against the proposed change. He added that if a sitting were held in Victoria the trade of that city would make similar representations.

Mr. Leggat, of Messrs. Wood, Vallance & Leggat, said he was opposed to any rule which enabled hardware and stoves to be shipped under the new classification to local dealers. He agreed with the views expressed by the other witnesses.

The chief commissioner had previously explained that the privilege had been sought recently by retail merchants in Manitoba and the Northwest. "It would give the Eastern manufacturers and jobbers a decided advantage," was the opinion expressed by the witness.

Mr. Greer of the C. P. R. said mixed shipments were restricted by the sliding character of the schedule.

"An attempt is being made to mix the commodities tariff with the Canadian classification," declared Mr. Marlow.

Mr. Greer further added that the proposed change, permitting mixed carloads, would operate against Vancouver wholesalers adversely, especially in regard to the trade with interior points. The Vancouver merchant would have, in addition to pay the local tariff from here to the Kootenays, whereas the Eastern shippers would effect a saving in competing in the same territory by shipping direct from the East to the Kootenays.

H. McDowell presented a report upon railway rates as between Montreal and Vancouver, and New York and Seattle, on the lines submitted by the Vancouver board of trade last year; also in regard to the rates as between Vancouver and Winnipeg and Winnipeg and Calgary, Vancouver and Montreal, and Winnipeg and Maeland respectively.

Mr. Marlow made a plea for an equalization of the Canadian and American rates to Pacific Coast points. Mr. Greer said the C. P. R. had previously entered a defence and would make new representations later. The American rates were due to water competition via Panama and the Horn. In view of the importance of this matter, and that the application is backed up by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the railway board put in a written answer," observed the chief commissioner.

Mr. Greer agreed to do so later on. It was agreed that the Vancouver Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association should be given a copy of the C. P. R.'s defence, and that the former bodies should be given a reasonable period within which to make a rejoinder.

DISCUSS EPIDEMIC.

Dawson Medical Men Trying to Discover Cause of Dysentery.

A Dawson correspondent, writing under date of September 12, says: The medical fraternity of Dawson will meet with Governor McInnes in the governor's office at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, to discuss the cause of the present epidemic of dysentery and other diseases in the city. The taking away of three little babes last week in one day and the fact that many others are hovering between life and death, and many adults who have been rugged have been dragged down with scarcely any notice and have been weakened, has impressed the commissioner with the fact that it is high time something strenuous should be done.

Nearly every possible source of disease has been suggested. Some think the flies are the cause of the epidemic; others argue water. Others say the decadent matter and the bad water and hot sun on the townsite have caused a miasma carrying germs that do the mischief. In some quarters it has been suggested that probably the meats consumed here have been washed in the preparation largely used outside to destroy the trace of tainted meat or other washes used by meat markets to keep away flies. Some say this is impossible, because babes have

The complaint who do not eat meat. Some contradict the water theory by saying the water they drink they have boiled all through the summer. Some medical authorities have contended that boiling water does not kill all disease germs, and the distilling, filtering and the like should be the course to follow. In fact, the community is at its wit's ends on the question, and no consensus of opinion has been approached.

Some of the victims are greatly reduced. Constable Jacques of the barracks is a sample. He lost thirty pounds in the few days that the disease had him in its toils.

The sugar is consigned to the British Columbia Sugar Refining Co., and is shipped from the plantations of the Vancouver-Fiji Sugar Company, a concern identified with the local refinery. This is the second shipment of the season from the same source. The Miowera is due to reach port on Thursday next. She is reported to be bringing a large number of passengers and she will have a full cargo of Australian products.

ONTARIO MAN DIED FOR ANOTHER'S CRIME

Toronto Star.

A sensational story of crime and the execution of an innocent man—a Canadian, with friends in different parts of Ontario—is revived by a despatch from Minot, in North Dakota, telling how a harvest hand called "Frank" has disappeared, leaving a note for his employer, Frank Beyer, intimating his intention of committing suicide, and enclosing a confession of a murder committed in 1874. The note read as follows:

"When my lifeless body is found notify my mother, Mrs. Catherine Hersig of Girard, Ohio. The enclosed letter will reveal my life and the awful secret of my wretched life. I can endure it no longer."

Along with this was a written confession signed with the man's real name, Charles Sterling. In the letter the man makes this confession:

"Dear Mr. Beyer:—In the early seventies, Charles Sterling, a supposed tramp, was tried for the murder of Lizzie Grombacher, a beautiful young woman residing near Youngstown, in Mahoning county, Ohio. He was convicted on circumstantial evidence, and was hanged for the crime in the county jail at Youngstown. Chas. Sterling was an innocent man. I am guilty of the murder of that young girl."

A telegram was sent to Youngstown, Ohio, brings the reply that "the murder of Lizzie Grombacher occurred in 1874, and Charles Sterling, a tramp, was hanged for it in 1877, after two trials. Sterling maintained his innocence to the end."

Remembers the Crime.

In a despatch from Pittsburg, Pa., David Jonas, a newspaper reporter, who reported the murder thirty years ago, recalls the case as he remembers it. He says: "Miss Grombacher was about 17 years old and beautiful. She was found in the bushes between Youngstown and Poland with a veil tied tightly around her throat. Chas. Sterling, the tramp, who was hanged for the crime, was seen in the vicinity during the day, and was convicted on purely circumstantial evidence. The jury disagreed at the first trial. A woman from Canada, who said she was Sterling's mother, came to see him before he was hanged."

Charles Sterling was not a tramp, except to the extent that he was a carpenter out of work. He was a stranger in the little Ohio village, and secured some trifling employment there. When a peculiarly revolting murder occurred almost coincident with his arrival in the place, and when witnesses appeared who swore they had seen Sterling, the crime was committed, he was at once considered guilty, and was with difficulty saved from lynching. The deed was done on a Sunday afternoon and Lizzie Grombacher had been at Sunday school. Not far from home, a search was made, and finally her dead and mutilated body was found in a piece of woods. Sterling admitted that he had been in the woods but denied any knowledge of the crime.

Sterling from Pickering. Charles Sterling as a boy lived in the village of Pickering. His father kept a store in that village almost directly opposite where the Gordon House now stands. He was an eccentric man, and it is told of him that once when a fire swept the main street of the village he refused to carry out his wares, saying that his place would be exempt. Strangely enough, his place was untouched, the flames jumping his premises and consuming buildings beyond.

From Pickering the Sterlings removed to Maxwell, in Grey county, where a general store was opened. Charles Sterling as a boy went to Fiesherton, where he apprenticed himself to W. M. Clark to learn carpentering and building. He was a quiet fellow and a great reader of books. Leaving Fiesherton, he went to the United States, and nothing more was heard of him until he was arrested on the charge of murder. The police then sent portraits of him to Clark, Mr. M. P. Clark, Mr. M. Richardson, ex-M. P., and others. Nobody who knew Sterling would believe him capable of the crime.

Parents Go to See Him. Sterling of Maxwell left for Ohio to see his son, but after going within twenty miles of Youngstown, changed his mind and returned home. He said the prisoner was Charles he could not bear to see him, and if he was not Charlie he had no interest in him.

Mrs. Sterling is remembered in Pickering and wherever known as an exceptionally fine woman, and she visited her son in prison. He sought to spare his mother sorrow, and denied his identity, having changed greatly in appearance. "I am entirely mistaken. I am another Sterling. Go home and rest content; your boy will no doubt turn up some of these days alive and well." But the mother could not be deceived. The jury disagreed at the first trial; there was a long delay, but three years after the crime Sterling was convicted and executed.

His Name Cleared Years Ago.

The peculiar part of the case is that Sterling's innocence was established twenty years ago. Mrs. Sterling lived to see her son's name cleared. A man down in Texas confessed, and the authorities in Ohio went to some trouble to notify the Sterlings, and all familiar with the case. As we now recall the facts, the crime was committed by two men, one of whom confessed in Texas, and this man Hersig was the other, whose whereabouts have since been unknown. One of these men was in the witness box as chief witness against the unfortunate Sterling. This case is one of the tragedies of justice.

creased again, the engines were stopped, and the vessel was allowed to drift at an altitude of 2,400 feet for some eight miles, descending finally made 16 miles from the starting point.

The maneuvering capacity of the vessel was clearly demonstrated during the descent. The machine was brought to the ground quite smoothly, without any signs of bumping, generally characteristic of balloon descents. A slight mishap occurred at this juncture, however. The aeronauts gathered together in the bow, with the result that the stern mounted swiftly in the air to a height of some forty feet. One of the party immediately seized the rippling valve and a huge rent was torn in the balloon fabric, liberating the gas with a roar. The force of the escaping gas ripped the balloon completely in halves and the fabric collapsed, bringing the framework to the ground with a crash. Fortunately, no one was hurt, and owing to the elasticity of the bamboo the only damage to the car was one broken propeller.

Although the trial was but a qualified success, it emphasized one or two cardinal points. The most vital is the impossibility of attaining success with an airship which depends for its buoyancy upon a gas balloon. Dr. Barton has already pointed out that the gas bag in his new machine which is now approaching completion. This new vessel will depend for its buoyancy upon the aeroplanes, which, although only four were carried upon the initial trip, proved highly satisfactory. Another inherent danger of such a balloon is buckling when brought head against a strong wind. The motors proved sufficiently powerful, but the propellers were found to be somewhat too small and pitched at the wrong angle. Many valuable details were obtained during the trial which are to be incorporated in the new aeroplane, which is to be submitted to a trial within the next few weeks.

G. T. PACIFIC ROUTE WEST.

Full Particulars as to the Points at Which the Railway Will Touch.

Winning Free Press.

By the courtesy of Mr. E. R. McNeill, division engineer of the Great Pacific railway, a representative of the Free Press has seen the precise location of the 275 miles of track west of Portage la Prairie, for which the contract was let last week. The line leaves Portage la Prairie in a due westerly direction, running parallel with the C.P.R., and about three-quarters of a mile north of that line for 20 miles. At MacGregor, where the C.P.R. swings 10 miles to the south from Brandon, the C.P.R. continues west until it crosses the Little Saskatchewan river. It strikes out to the west-northwest, passing within a mile of Wheatland station, on the C.P.R. branch line, and crossing the C.P.R. in the vicinity of Cranall. The Arrow river is also crossed, and the line then goes directly west for a few miles until it strikes the Assiniboine a mile west of Minotota. The course of the Assiniboine is then followed to the mouth of the Qu'Appelle, where the Assiniboine is crossed, and the Qu'Appelle is followed till the prairie level is again reached. A line to the northwest is then taken to the crossing of the Red River, near Redpath, and the line then goes direct to the Touchwood Hills post office, to the north of Little Touchwood Hills.

The contractors, Messrs. McDonald, McMillan & Co., commenced work on the 26th ult., only four days after the contract was let, and they now have 1,000 men and 600 teams at work, practically covering the 85 miles west of Portage. It is estimated that 1,000 miles of roadbed will be graded ready for track laying before the freeze up, and the company, who intend to do the tracking themselves, will begin this work as soon as the weather will allow in the spring. The contractors are making every arrangement to have the whole 275 miles of tracks covered by construction gangs in the next two weeks, and the work has to be ready for tracklaying in a year. A great deal of work will be done during the winter in the delivery of materials along the line. Men are in the field purchasing the right-of-way, and engineering parties are located on the line, overlooking the construction work. Logging parties are also in the field west of this section of the line.

In the 275 miles covered by this contract there is very little deviation from the straight line. The company intend to build a first-class line, and every respect. The roadbed will be 16 feet in width, and passing tracks 4,000 feet in length will be laid to accommodate the long trains which will be hauled. The grade is four feet, and 21 feet per mile, the sharpest curves used are three degrees. The contract involves an expenditure of about $4,000,000.

HAD AN AWFUL TIME.

But Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Cured Him.

It is with pleasure that I give you this unsolicited testimonial. About a year ago when I had a severe case of measles I got caught out in a hard rain and cold and settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had it not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have got any sleep but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have used it since above named time and find it will always stand a good word for this remedy.—Sam H. Givin, traveling salesman for Concord Creamery Co., N. B.

POLICY-HOLDERS' CONTROL.

Chicago Tribune.

The leading life insurance companies of New York, except the Equitable, have professed to be "mutual" companies. They belong to the policy holders, it has been asserted in advertisements and by agents, and are run exclusively in their interest. The degree of control the owners have been given a chance to exercise over their property is shown by the testimony at the investigation of insurance methods by a committee of the New York legislature which is now in progress. The New York Life has 800,000 policy-holders. Supposedly it is their right to elect a board of trustees. As a matter of fact, however, the policy-holders have never been sent advance notices of an election, and 2,328 of them is the most that have voted at any annual meeting in ten years. The New York Mutual has 650,000 policy-holders. They never have been sent notices of the annual meetings, and an average of about 200 have voted at the elections of trustees. The trustees of a mutual company are supposed to be elected by the policy-holders. The officers have in the past selected the policy-holders who were to be given a chance to vote for trustees, and in many instances have held their proxies. Practically, therefore, the officers have elected the trustees.

With the trustees choosing the officers and the officers electing the trustees it is plain that the accountability of the managements of the mutual companies to their policy-holders has been purely fictitious. For the use they have made of the millions of other people's money turned over to them to hold as a sacred trust in practice they have been responsible to nobody. The public knows how the management of the Equitable, which, although a stock company, purported to be run mainly in the interest of the policy-holders, has been managed. The opportunities for bad methods of management, fraud and plunder have been fully as good in the mutual companies as in the Equitable, and the Equitable has not introduced shows they have not been improved, and improved. The exact extent to which they have been improved perhaps will be better known when the present investigation ends.

Kootenay Steel Range

VENTILATED OVEN

The health of a family depends greatly upon the hygienic nature of the cooking.

The oven in the Kootenay Range is ventilated, and every dish baked in it is entirely free from the effects of pent-up cooking gases.

A perfectly ventilated oven is one of the most important features of a range, and yet it is given very little attention by most makers, and none whatever in most of the cheaply gotten-up ranges now offered to the public.
